

Call for Papers: Gnosis – Journal of Philosophy

Deadline: December 18th, 2009

GNOSIS is a journal of philosophy published by graduate students under the auspices of the Department of Philosophy at Concordia University located in Montreal Quebec. Gnosis was founded in 1973, and has provided students with an opportunity to gain exposure of their work in the public sphere. Most submissions to our journal are usually by graduate students, but exceptional undergraduate work is also welcomed. We follow a double blind peer-review procedure to ensure fair, and anonymous assessment of all submissions. Gnosis is committed to maintaining a high standard of philosophical rigor and quality with our publications.

GNOSIS is interested in publishing articles across the whole range of philosophical topics and positions. Please provide a short abstract (between 150-400 words) along with your submitted paper (no set limit, but submissions under 7000 words are preferable). The abstract should not contain any undefined abbreviations or unspecified references, and should be attached to the beginning of your article. We will also be accepting book reviews (2000 word maximum) for books published within the last year.

Please click here to see submission guidelines:

<http://alcor.concordia.ca/~gnosis/Gnosis/Guidelines/Guidelines.pdf>

If you are submitting by mail:

- Please include on a covering page only: your full name, address, email address, title of your paper, plus word count and # of pages. In addition, please indicate which institution you are affiliated with, and your current level of studies (UG, MA, PhD).
- Please include both a digital version of your document (MS Word (.doc, not .docx) or .rtf) saved on a PC-compatible diskette (the diskette must be identified with your coordinates); and a hard copy of your paper.

If you are submitting by email:

- Please include: your full name, address, email address, title of your paper, plus word count and # of pages on a separate title page antecedent the rest of the article.
- Your article must be emailed as either a MS Word Document (.doc, not .docx), or a .rtf file attachment.
- Please send all submissions to gnosis@alcor.concordia.ca, with "Gnosis Submission" in the subject line.

All submissions received after the December 18th deadline will be considered for the subsequent issue.

All manuscripts and correspondence must be sent to:

GNOSIS

Concordia University, Philosophy Department
1455 de Maisonneuve Blvd. West
Montreal (Quebec) Canada
H3G 1M8

We are sorry, but Gnosis cannot be responsible for any documents are lost in transit.

For any further information, please send an email to: gnosis@alcor.concordia.ca

For previous issues of Gnosis visit our website: <http://alcor.concordia.ca/~gnosis/Gnosis/index.html>